MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

FROM: SECRETARY RAY MARSHALL
HAMILTON JORDAN HJ

DATE: MAY 22, 1978

SUBJECT: PRESIDENTIAL COMMISSION ON COAL

We wish to recommend that you appoint the following three individuals as the public members of the Presidential Commission on Coal:

1) Governor Jay Rockefeller of West Virginia (as Chairman). Governor Rockefeller has credibility with both labor and management. Coal represents about 26 percent of West Virginia's economy: he has a demonstrated and intense interest in the problems of the industry. He was an excellent Co-Chairman of the White House Conference on Balanced Growth and he can be counted upon to recruit a top notch staff. Further, his presence would insure that the other coal-state governors would continue to be a positive influence on the resolution of coal industry problems. Rockefeller has indicated to Ray that he has the time and the willingness to serve.

2) Willard Wirtz. An ex-Secretary of Labor, Mr. Wirtz is familiar with labor-management issues in a context broader than the coal industry. He has previously worked on high level commissions and is consequently familiar with the procedures the Commission should follow. His appointment would bring additional prestige to the Commission and would be acceptable to both labor and management.

3) Dewey Presley. Mr. Presley is President of the First International Bankshares, Inc of Dallas. He is strongly recommended by Bob Strauss and would bring the perspective of a respected Democratic businessman to the Commission. He was instrumental in assisting Bob in bringing pressure on the business community during the coal strike.

Schlesinger, Strauss, and Schultze also approve of these three recommendations.

Detailed biographies of the three nominees are attached.

If you approve these three members, they will be announced by you in West Virginia on Friday.

The other two appointees will be chosen by you from among individuals recommended by the UMWA and the BCOA to represent their points of view; these additional two appointments will be announced at a later date.

JOHN DAVISON ROCKEFELLER, IV, Governor of the State of West Virginia, was born in New York City on June 18, 1937 to John Davison III and Blanche Ferry (Hooker). He attended Phillips Exeter Academy from which he was graduated in 1954. He received an A.B. from Harvard in 1961. In 1957 he was a student of the Japanese language at the International Christian University in Tokyo, Japan. His education also included post graduate work in Chinese at Yale University as well as an instructor in Far Eastern Languages.

In 1961 he was appointed a member of the National Advisory Council, Peace Corps. He served as special assistant to the Director of the Peace Corps in 1962. From 1962 to 1963 Mr. Rockefeller was operation officer in charge of work in the Philippines. At the U.S. Department of State in 1963 he served as desk officer for Indonesian affairs, Bureau of Far Eastern Affairs. Later he was appointed assistant to the Assistant Secretary for Far Eastern Affairs. In 1964 he was a consultant with the President's Commission on Juvenile Delinquency and Youth Crime.

In 1964 Mr. Rockefeller moved to West Virginia where he was a field worker for Action for Appalachian Youth Program. His political career began in West Virginia where he served as a member of the West Virginia House of Delegates in 1966 until 1968 when he was elected Secretary of State for West Virginia. In 1968 he was president of West Virginia Wesleyan College. He served in this post until 1975.

Mr. Rockefeller was elected Governor, State of West Virginia in 1976.

WILLIAM WILLARD WIRTZ, lawyer, was born in DeKalb, Illinois on March 14, 1912 to the late William Wilbur and Alpha Belle (White). He attended Northern Illinois State Teachers College from 1928 to 1930, the University of California in Berkeley (1930-31), and Beloit College in Beloit, Wisconsin, (1931-33), from which he received an A.B. degree. He was graduated from Harvard Law School in 1937. Mr. Wirtz has had a career of law teaching, practicing law, labor arbitration, and public service.

From 1942 to 1946, Mr. Wirtz served in Washington: first as assistant general counsel of the Board of Economic Warfare, then as general counsel and public member of the War Labor Board, and finally as Chairman of the National Wage Stabilization Board. Between the years 1946 and 1961 he was engaged in law practice as well as teaching law at Northwestern University.

In September 1962 the late President John F. Kennedy appointed Mr. Wirtz as Secretary of Labor. Prior to that he had served as Under Secretary of Labor with Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg.

Mr. Wirtz is currently with the National Manpower Institute in Washington, D.C.

W. DEWEY PRESLEY, banker, was born in Wills Point, Texas on May 26, 1918 to Dewey and Myrtle (Threatt). He received is B.A. from Baylor University in 1939. His career includes working with Magnolia Oil Co. and Magnolia Pipe Line Company from 1939 to 1942. From 1942 to 1952 he served as a special agent with the FBI. He served as senior vice-president of the First National Bank, Dallas from 1960-63 after being with First National Bank Dallas since 1952. In 1963 he was appointed as chairman of the board of executive directors of the First National Bank, Dallas. He also served as president, International Bancshares, Inc., Dallas; director, Southeastern Drilling, Inc.; board of directors, Baptist Foundation, Texas; C.P.A., Texas. He is a member of the American Institute of C.P.A.'s Texas, and Dallas society of C.P.A.'s.

MEMORANDUM FOR ~~FRANK MOORE~~ THE PRESIDENT

FROM: ~~DAN TATE~~
FRANK MOORE

Yesterday Senator Quentin Burdick's 17 year old son, Gage, was killed while helping the Senator paint their house in North Dakota. Apparently he was electrocuted while using a sander.

The Senator is terribly shaken. His son is the only child of the Senator's present marriage (he has several children by a previous marriage). The Senator blames himself for this accident.

The Senator's wife's name is Jocelyn.

You may want to call him and I recommend that you do so. The funeral is tomorrow in North Dakota.

Department of Energy
Washington, D.C. 20585

May 23, 1978

MEMORANDUM FOR:

THE PRESIDENT

FROM:

JIM SCHLESINGER

SUBJECT: FISCAL YEAR 1980 BUDGET PLANNING TARGET

The purpose of this memorandum is to provide you with my views regarding the FY 1980 budget planning target recommended by the OMB for the Department of Energy. The situation can be summarized as follows:

	(Billions)
	BA	BO
DOE FY 1980 Estimate	$12.1	$13.7
OMB Recommendation	8.2	10.6
Reduction	$-3.9	$-3.1

As can be seen, there is a divergent view with regard to the FY 1980 funding level necessary for DOE to meet the Nation's energy and national security related objectives. In part, this difference is related to the fact that the OMB has prepared a world oil analysis which implies a lessening of world energy problems. This assessment leads the OMB to place a relatively low priority on the Department's FY 1980 estimated requirements. I do not share this optimism. The attached analysis sets forth our belief that the world oil outlook is no better, and perhaps more serious, than previously estimated.

The reduction recommended by the OMB is also reflective of the overriding need to affect significant reductions in the Federal budget, given the limited flexibility available after consideration of defense needs and the virtually uncontrollable entitlement programs. In my judgment, however, a reduction of the magnitude recommended clearly places the energy issue very low in the overall scheme of priorities.

The FY 1980 budget planning target of $10.6 billion in budget outlays recommended by the OMB would require DOE to reduce its estimated requirements by $3.1 billion:

- o $2.1 billion in high priority initiatives such as commercial and defense nuclear waste management, the recently announced solar initiatives, and facility upgrading to meet EPA and OSHA standards;
- o $1.0 billion in base program activities committed to by the Administration in its FY 1979 budget.

The reductions recommended by OMB are focused on the Department's energy supply, conservation and defense programs as shown below:

	(Billions)
	BA	BO
DOE FY 1980 Estimate	$12.1	$13.7
Energy Supply R&D	-1.3	-0.8
Energy Supply Production	-0.7	-0.8
Conservation	-0.2	-0.2
Defense	-0.6	-0.4
All Other	-1.1	-0.9
OMB Recommendation	$ 8.2	$10.6

It is to these major areas of the Department's budget that I will direct my specific concerns.

ENERGY SUPPLY R&D

	(Billions)
	BA	BO
DOE FY 1980 Estimate	$ 4.3	$ 4.0
OMB Recommendation	3.0	3.2
Reduction	$-1.3	$-0.8

The OMB recommended funding level for energy supply research, development and demonstration would cut base program outlay levels by $300 million. The remaining $500 million of the reduction must be taken at the expense of priority modifications to the base level.

The reductions to base program activities recommended by OMB are primarily general reductions structured around the premise that RD&D should not serve as a means of producing near-term energy supplies. We share with OMB the philosophy that RD&D is a tool "... to establish the technical, economic and environmental feasibility (capability) for eventual commercialization by the private sector." Indeed, the Department's FY 1980 budget, as well as the recently announced FY 1979 energy supply initiatives, were based on just that premise. However, reductions to the base RD&D program of the magnitude recommended by the OMB would seriously jeopardize our ability to establish the capability for eventual commercialization of a sufficiently wide range of energy supply technologies.

In addition, the recommended OMB level would eliminate priority modifications to the energy supply RD&D base program. It would:

- o Require termination or severe curtailment of the recently announced Presidential initiatives aimed at developing renewable supply technologies;
- o Eliminate essential upgrading to DOE facilities to achieve compliance with EPA and OSHA standards;
- o Reduce the viability of our domestic nuclear industry by precluding
 - the provision of spent fuel storage capacity necessary to meet mid-1980 requirements,
 - the accelerated development of technology for the terminal storage of commercial nuclear waste.

ENERGY SUPPLY PRODUCTION

	(Billions)
	BA	BO
DOE FY 1980 Estimate	$ 1.4	$ 1.4
OMB Recommendation	0.7	0.6
Reduction	$-0.7	$-0.8

With regard to the production of energy supplies, the OMB recommendation is primarily directed toward the reduction of U.S. production of enriched uranium for which compensating revenues are received through sales to both domestic and foreign customers.

Specifically, the FY 1980 funding level recommended by the OMB would:

- o Eliminate ongoing activities to construct additional enrichment capacity utilizing centrifuge technology at Portsmouth, Ohio;
- o Reduce sharply the production of enriched uranium from existing plants for the preproduction stockpile.

Implementation of these recommendations would essentially undermine the Administration's carefully constructed nonproliferation policy. Termination of the Portsmouth capacity expansion would:

- o Encourage accelerated construction of foreign enriching capacity;
- o Contradict our public commitment to remain an assured source of enriched uranium supply by eliminating the capability to take new orders (which we have not done since 1974) or to meet current commitments.

DOE has taken into account already the fact that slippage has been experienced in the demand for enriched uranium. As a result of this reassessment and a review of the centrifuge development plan, we recently announced a slowdown in construction of the Portsmouth centrifuge facility. This action had the advantage of reducing our FY 1980 budget authority requirements by $300 million, while maintaining our nonproliferation policy.

Substantial curtailment of the production of enriched uranium for the preproduction stockpile, as recommended by the OMB, would reduce the U.S. capability to impact favorably the balance of payments deficit through sales to foreign customers. In fact, by maintaining the planned production level, we preserve the option to consummate a major foreign sale in FY 1980 which would result in a large increment in revenues without jeopardizing preproduction stockpile levels.

CONSERVATION

	(Billions)
	BA	BO
DOE FY 1980 Estimate	$ 1.2	$ 1.3
OMB Recommendation	1.0	1.1
Reduction	$-0.2	$-0.2

The funding level recommended for DOE conservation R&D and grant programs in FY 1980 would:

- o Reduce the base level R&D program by $100 million;
- o Preclude our ability to honor funding commitments included in the NEA legislation currently pending before Congress.

The OMB recommendation to reduce conservation R&D by $100 million represents over a 20 percent reduction. The reduction is based on a premise similar to that discussed above regarding the respective roles of the Federal and private sectors in developing the capability to commercialize energy technologies. We believe that the conservation R&D programs included in the FY 1980 DOE estimate reflect the proper Federal role. A reduction of the size contemplated by the OMB would impair most seriously ongoing programs directed toward the establishment of this capability.

With regard to the $70 million included in our FY 1980 estimate to fund NEA legislation not included in the base program, we believe that the Administration must be in the position to support this legislation when passed by the Congress. The majority of these funds would be provided to State Public Utility Commissions who will have the major responsibility for rate reform. Without this funding, our efforts to rationalize electricity prices will meet with little success.

DEFENSE PROGRAMS

	(Billions)
	BA	BO
DOE FY 1980 Estimate	$ 3.3	$ 3.1
OMB Recommendation	2.7	2.7
Reduction	$-0.6	$-0.4

The OMB recommended funding level for FY 1980 would substantially reduce our ability to meet key defense requirements. It would:

- o Reduce the advanced naval reactor development program, impairing the long-term readiness and reliability of the nuclear fleet;
- o Delay, by at least one year, important elements in the modernization of the tactical nuclear weapon stockpile and continue to erode advanced weapons R&D capability at DOE laboratories;
- o Eliminate initiatives currently planned to improve the confinement of defense related radioactive waste and to develop a comprehensive long-term solution to the problem;
- o Prevent DOE from meeting special nuclear materials requirements set forth in the Presidential Stockpile Memorandum.

ESCALATION

The OMB recommended level ignores the impact of escalation, which amounts to $440 million for all DOE programs in FY 1980. Escalation represents a very real cost since the majority of DOE's long-term contracts provide for escalation adjustments. The OMB level assumes that this cost will be absorbed into the base program level, further reducing program viability.

In summary, restoration of the $1.0 billion eliminated from the FY 1980 base funding level is essential in order to provide for adequate supplies of enriched uranium and maintain the viability of ongoing RD&D programs. In addition, high priority initiatives for the management of commercial and defense nuclear wastes, facility upgrading, continuation of the FY 1979 supply initiatives and escalation must be provided for in the FY 1980 budget planning target. Restoration of these items would result in a FY 1980 budget planning target of $12.9 billion as opposed to our original FY 1980 estimate of $13.7 billion. Given the fiscal constraints we face in FY 1980, I believe we can meet the Department's requirements within that level.

I look forward to meeting with you this week to discuss the Department's FY 1980 programs.

ATTACHMENT A

In its 1980 Spring Planning Review, OMB has questioned the severity of the energy problem. Part of OMB's rationale for a reduction in DOE's budget is based on a "changed energy situation". Yet DOE believes that in fact the energy problem is from most perspectives more serious than perceived a year ago.

We disagree with OMB's argument for a number of reasons:

- o OMB's statement that new DOE forecasts show that the NEP demand goal would be achieved without the NEP is incorrect. The major difference between the two base case demand estimates presented by OMB results from different assumptions about the U.S. economic growth rate and different conversion factors. The NEP base case assumed that the CEA growth goals for the economy (4.1%/year) would be met; the forecast OMB used assumes the DRI Trendlong growth rate (3.8%/year). In addition, different conversion factors are used for the two estimates so that the domestic demand levels shown in Table IV are not comparable.

More importantly, the two DOE base cases do project very similar oil import levels (11 to 11.5 MMB/D). Because the majority of oil import reductions in the NEP come from coal conversion and, to some extent, increased oil and gas production, a comparison of overall domestic demand levels is not an adequate indicator of the impact of the NEA. The "new" DOE base case forecast shows as serious an oil import problem as last year's forecast.

- o The petroleum outlook, if anything, is worse today than a year ago. The U.S. Geological Survey is currently revising its estimates of U.S. oil reserves and resources downward. Moreover, U.S. production of oil in 1978 is lower than previously forecasted. CIA's greater optimism about non-OPEC production (largely from Mexico and Egypt) is offset by its more pessimistic assessment of likely OPEC capacity (36 MMB/D, rather than the 40 MMB/D cited by OMB).

- o Estimates of Saudi Arabian production capacity are lower than last year (12 MMB/D is more likely than the previous year's 16 MMB/D estimate). Based on what we know of Saudi plans to expand current capacity, DOE estimates a total OPEC capacity of 37-39 MMB/D in 1985.
- o Estimates of production from the Soviet Union and other East European Communist countries indicate that they could be net importers or exporters of oil by 1985. CIA forecasts them as net importers of 2.5 MMB/D by 1985, while MIT forecasts 1 MMB/D net exports. DOE assumes no net imports for the Communist nations.
- o OMB questions the urgency of reducing oil imports, raising the issue of what constitutes a "tolerable" level of dependency. We have seen evidence that current levels of imports at today's prices create serious balance of payments impacts. The potential for both oil imports and prices to rise in the 1980's will result in continued large trade deficits with associated adverse impacts on inflation and unemployment.

In summary, DOE believes the energy outlook today is no more favorable, and probably worse than a year ago. The underlying factors requiring a National Energy Plan and further actions to increase supply are as relevant and pressing today as they were last year.

Mr. President --

The other day I noticed that "Chesapeake" was being advertised; called Random House assuming that they'd have "advance" copies (which they didn't). They have sent a "galley", which I told them would be returned.

When you're through, thought we/you could send a note to Michener thanking him. (I've already thanked Random House.)

Do you think you'd be interested in meeting Michener in August (as mentioned in attached note)? I will not indicate as such to them at this time, but it probably would be good for Phil to know ahead of time if you have any interest in this.

Dear Ms. Clough:

We were very happy to learn of the President's interest in reading James Michener's new novel, CHESAPEAKE.

You were probably told that bound copies wouldn't be available until mid-June. But perhaps the President would like to get started (the book is nearly 900 pages long!) with these bound galleys. They come with ours, and Mr. Michener's best wishes, and with assurance that a properly bound edition will be sent on shortly.

I told Mr. Michener of your request, and he was very honored, indeed. Perhaps we can arrange to have them meet in August, when he returns from a long trip to Poland. Will you let me know if President Carter would like to pursue this.

MEMORANDUM TO THE PRESIDENT

FROM: JIM FALLOWS, ^{Jr.} GRIFFIN SMITH ^{GS}

SUBJECT: USO/Bob Hope Reception

Attached is a suggested draft of remarks which Jerry Rafshoon's office has prepared and we edited slightly.

We also spoke with one of Bob Hope's gag writers, who suggested the following jokes you might wish to use:

1. Now that Bob admits to being 75, it should dispel the rumor that he once tried to sell a tube of Pepsodent to George Washington....Besides, everybody knows George Washington was a Lemon Pledge man.
2. Bob is finally coming to terms with his age; he's even looking on the bright side. His agent told him he could do a yogurt commercial any day now.
3. For the next couple of days, Washington is going to be a "Bob-partisan" town.

USO Reception with Bob Hope

Bob, it's a great pleasure for Rosalynn and me to welcome you to the White House. I know this isn't the first time you've been here. I've been in office 489 days, and according to my calculations, it'll be another three weeks before I've spent as much time in the White House as you have.

And you've certainly left your mark. The first time we were shown through our new quarters, I was deeply moved by the East Room, Rosalynn got choked up in the Lincoln bedroom, and Amy got carried away every time we passed a sign that said, "Bob Hope slept here."

By the way, if you can stay over tonight, Amy would like you to be her personal guest -- if you don't mind climbing a tree to your room.

And while I have the chance, I do have one small complaint to make. As you know, I spent some time in the service, and every Christmas we'd stop engines at a depth of 200 feet and put some milk and cookies under the conning tower of our submarine -- but you never showed up. Our commanding officer finally came up with an explanation. "Gentlemen," he said, "we all know Bob Hope can walk on water, but apparently he can't swim."

So, as Honorary Chairman of USO, I'd like to say all is forgiven. I'd also like to say that even though our crew never got one of your marvelous Christmas shows, every one of us had ample opportunity to be grateful to USO for the job it was doing then -- and is still doing for our men and women in uniform.

I wish there were some formal way to acknowledge all you've done for the armed services, but my predecessors in this office have literally emptied the government's larders of medals, citations and honors. We thought about trying to get you an Oscar, but that didn't work out,

so only this remains:

As President of the United States, as Commander in Chief of the Armed Forces, and as Honorary Chairman of USO, I'd like to offer the thanks of a grateful nation to a man who has served his country in war and peace with brilliance, courage and selfless devotion, far beyond the call of duty.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR

BIOGRAPHY

Al G. Loehr, the present Mayor of the City of St. Cloud, was born on October 20, 1927, in the Granite City of Central Minnesota. A lifelong resident of the city, the Mayor now resides at 203 North 16th Avenue. Al and his wife, Shirley, have two daughters, Cindy and Debbie, and two sons, Wayne and Peter.

Mayor Loehr's education began in the parochial elementary and secondary school system in St. Cloud. He also has participated in the University of Minnesota Extension Division where he completed courses in Civil Defense Management, Civil Defense Plans and Operations, and a course in Executive Management.

During World War II, Al Loehr served with the United States Navy aboard a ship in the Pacific Theater of Operations.

After the war, he returned to St. Cloud where he was employed by the Great Northern Railroad in their Waite Park car shops. He was employed with the railroad for seventeen and one-half years.

In February of 1965, Mayor Loehr was appointed Commissioner of the Minnesota Department of Veterans Affairs by Governor Karl Rolvaag. He served in this post until 1969.

Mayor Loehr returned to St. Cloud in April of 1969 when he began his employment as the Stearns County Civil Defense Director. Mayor Loehr held this position until he was elected Mayor of St. Cloud in 1970.

As Mayor of St. Cloud, Mayor Loehr has been asked by Governor Anderson to serve on various committees and commissions of the state. A list of them follows: Governors Inter-departmental Transportation Task Force, Mississippi Parkway Commission, Minnesota Bi-partisan Citizens Committee on Voter Registration, Minnesota Bi-Centennial Commission, the Minnesota Justice System Advisory Council and the State Planning Agency Task Force affecting Regional Development Commissions in the state.

Mayor Loehr's efforts on the state government level have earned him recognition by two governors, Governor Levander and Governor Anderson, by way of the Minnesota Citation of Honor. He was presented this citation in 1969 and 1972.

The Mayor has also devoted a great deal of his efforts to the League of Minnesota Cities. In his capacity as vice-president of the League, he has chaired two of its committees; the Training Operation and the Railroad Committees. Presently, the Mayor is President of the League. In the summer of 1976, the Mayor received the highest honor the League of Minnesota Cities bestows to any local official, the C.C. Ludwig Award. This award is given for distinguished municipal service.

Two other organizations on a statewide municipal level have had Al Loehr as one of its participants. The Coalition of Out-state Cities was founded by Al Loehr and he has served as its first president. The Mayor also has been a past president of the Minnesota Mayors Association.

Locally, Mayor Loehr is a member of the Metropolitan Transit Commission, the St. Cloud Area Council of Governments and the Central Minnesota Regional Development Commission.

On the national level, Al Loehr is a member of the National League of Cities. Through this organization he has been selected to serve as a member of the Small Cities Advisory Council, the Housing and Community Development Committee and the Public Safety Committee, and vice-chairman of the National Mayors Bi-Centennial Commission.

Another interest of Mayor Loehr is veterans affairs. Currently, Mayor Loehr is chairman of the Minnesota United Veterans Legislative Council. He is a member and has served in several leadership capacities with numerous local and national veterans organizations. In 1976, Mayor Loehr was appointed by Senator Vance Hartke as a member of the National Advisory Council of the U.S. Senate Committee of Veterans Affairs upon the recommendation of Senator Humphrey. His most gratifying accomplishment in veterans affairs was the passage of the Minnesota Vietnam Veterans Bonus legislation in 1973. He was termed the "main force" and "originator" of this legislation by his colleagues.

Al Loehr has been involved with many local organizations during his adult life. He is currently a member of the St. Cloud Moose 1400, St. Cloud Eagles Number 6, Knights of Columbus, the Elks, Cathedral Athletic Association, Catholic Aid Association, St. Cloud Sports Inc., and the St. Cloud Chamber of Commerce.

The Mayor has also received honors from organizations not previously mentioned. He has been named by the St. Cloud Chamber of Commerce as Outstanding Young Man of 1962; in 1969, he received the St. Cloud Jaycee's Distinguished Service Award; the St. Cloud State University Alumni Association's Distinguished Service Award - 1976; and he has received a citation from the United States Department of Defense. The Mayor also holds outstanding service awards from these organizations: V.F.W., American Legion, Purple Heart, Minnesota County Veterans Service Officers, and Jewish War Veterans.

Mayor Loehr's accomplishments include spearheading passage of a referendum regarding the St. Cloud downtown mall, which led to St. Cloud's 1973 citation as an All-America City by the National Municipal League. Physical development projects such as the Veterans Bridge, the St. Cloud Municipal Sports Complex and the construction of St. Cloud's new Water Pollution Control Facility are some of his achievements. He established a full-time Human Rights Office and supported a strong anti-discrimination ordinance. He has been instrumental in working with a variety of groups (veterans, youth and senior citizens) to extend services.

The activities of the Democratic Farmer Labor Party have always had a special place in Mayor Loehr's public life. The highest post Mayor Loehr attained was in 1974 when he received the DFL Party endorsement for State Auditor by acclamation.

In 1972 and 1976, Mayor Loehr was re-elected mayor. His present term expires April, 1980.

In August 1977, Mayor Loehr was selected by the National Veterans of Foreign Wars to be its National Chief of Staff for a one year term.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

FROM: JIM FALLOWS, ^{JF} JERRY DOOLITTLE ^{JDO}
SUBJECT: President Ford Portrait Talking Points

1. It is a pleasure for me to welcome back to the White House President Ford, who did so much to heal our country's wounds, and his wife, Betty, whose courage and honesty stand as examples to all of us. I think these portraits capture those qualities well.
2. President Ford's picture will hang in the entrance hall on the State Floor. Mrs. Ford's will be in more attractive company, in the ground floor corridor which has served as a gallery of First Ladies' portraits since the days of Theodore Roosevelt.
3. I'd like to welcome, too, the artists who painted these portraits -- Everett Raymond Kinstler, who did President Ford, and Felix de Cossio, Mrs. Ford's portraitist.
4. And I know the Fords join me in thanking the White House Historical Association. Since 1951, the Association has been setting aside money from the sale of its publications to commission the official portraits of Presidents and First Ladies for the White House collection.

A high-contrast, black and white portrait of a man in a pinstripe suit and striped tie, sitting and looking directly at the camera. The image is heavily stylized with a grainy, high-contrast aesthetic. The man's hands are clasped in his lap. The background is dark and textured. In the bottom left corner, there is a small, faint signature that reads "REILLY KENNEDY KENNEDY".

1. Chlorophyll a and Chlorophyll b were determined by the method of Lichtenthaler and Whistler (1973).

PRESIDENTATION OF THE PORTRAITS OF PRESIDENT
AND MRS. GERALD R. FORD, May 24, 1978, 2:30 p.m. -
East Room

Since the creation of the White House Historical Association in 1961, income raised from the sale of the Association's publications on the White House (The White House: An Historic Guide, The Living White House, The Presidents of the United States and The First Ladies) has been set aside to purchase the official portraits of Presidents and First Ladies for the White House collection.

The selection of an artist is usually up to the sitter, Usually (and in this case) the curator selects artists and recommends a few artists each with their portfolios to the President and First Lady from which they select a preferred artist. President and Mrs. Ford each selected two artists to paint their portraits on a competitive basis - the winner gets paid. But they were so pleased with the first artists' works that they never sat for the second artist.

Once the artist is selected, the White House Historical Association commissions the work with the understanding that the completed portrait must be acceptable to the sitter, or the family of the subject in the event it is a posthumous portrait.

President Gerald R. Ford selected Everett Raymond Kinstler (see attached biography) to paint his official portrait. Six months after leaving office, in July 1977, Mr. Ford sat for the artist at his winter home in Vail, Colorado. After its presentation, the portrait will hang in the Entrance Hall on the State Floor of the White House opposite the portrait of President Lyndon B. Johnson. Portraits of recent Presidents customarily hang in the Entrance Hall, Cross Hall and Ground Stairway.

Mrs. Ford sat at Vail for her portrait at the same time as Mr. Ford. The artist of her portrait is Felix deCossio (biography attached). This portrait will hang on the ground floor corridor, to the left of the door to the Diplomatic Reception Room. Since the days of Theodore Roosevelt, this corridor has been a gallery of portraits of First Ladies.

If you are looking for humor for reference purposes, the two most publicized events relating to the rejection of "official portraits" happened with former Secretary of State Kissinger and Former President Lyndon Johnson. Portraits are very personal things. Usually, the sitter likes it very much or hates it.

Mr. Kissinger made his selection of an artist based on the same artist's portrait of Dean Acheson which he admired, but it was done 25 years earlier and Acheson and Kissinger were very different in appearance. Mr. Kissinger did not consult the Curator of the State Department (Clem Conger). However, when he saw the finished portrait he said "Clem, you'll have to get me out of this." Clem Conger got Kissinger out of his embarrassing turn-down of the portrait but worldwide publicity resulted when it leaked to the press. Kissinger's portrait is now underway - two artists are being considered on a competitive basis as in the Fords' case. Although the second artist doesn't know it yet.

Clippings are attached showing Lyndon Johnson's violent disapproval of his first portrait by Peter Hurd. It is now hanging in the National Portrait Gallery. The portrait in the White House Entrance Hall (just outside East Room) is the one President Johnson liked. It is by Madame Elizabeth Shoumatoff who also painted the White House portrait of Lady Bird Johnson.

Attached are biographies of the artists who will be present and who should be commended; also photographs of finished paintings which you should attach to the paper for the President.

The portraits (not covered) will be arranged on easels on the platform in the East Room. The order of the ceremony is indicated in the souvenir program (copy available from Gretchen Poston).

Precedents

Early 19th Century

(In July 1800)

~~During the first half of the 19th century,~~ Only one portrait, that of George Washington, was purchased by the government for the President's House. It was not until the mid 1880's that a President (Chester Arthur) would sit for a life portrait which would remain in the White House at the end of his administration.

Throughout the 19th century, most Presidents sat for their portraits at various times, often in the White House, but none of the portraits were for the collections of the White House. The portraits were either for the personal collection of the President or painted for the artist or another collection.

It has been a long standing White House tradition that the portrait of a President in office does not hang in the public areas of the White House until he has left office. If a portrait were completed while he was President, it would be shown in a public area on the inauguration day of his successor. (The last time this occurred was with the portraits of President and Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson).

MEMORANDUM FOR:

THE PRESIDENT

FROM:

STU EIZENSTAT Stu

SUBJECT:

One-House Veto Cases

I have checked with the Justice Department on the status of one-House veto cases. John Harmon, who is in charge of the Office of Legal Counsel and who has specialized in this area for Judge Bell, reports that there is no case now pending before the Supreme Court on the one-House veto issue.

There are two cases, however, which could come before the Supreme Court next year, but in neither case would a final Supreme Court decision be likely before the end of 1979. One of those cases involves a one-House veto with respect to the immigration law. Justice has argued in the U.S. Court of Appeals for the ninth circuit that the Congress' exercise of its veto over Judge Bell's decision in certain hardship cases is unconstitutional. The decision by the ninth circuit may be forthcoming within the next several weeks, but any appeal to and decision by the Supreme Court might take another year.

The second case involves the GSA regulations concerning former President Nixon's tapes. In that case, which is now before the U.S. District Court in the District of Columbia, Justice is arguing that the regulations were invalid because they were issued under a statute containing three one-House vetos. This case is even further from the Supreme Court than the ninth circuit case; a decision by this court is not expected until the fall.

In brief, we cannot expect any decision from the Supreme Court for at least a year, and any decision about proceeding with a message on one-House vetoes should not depend on possible Supreme Court action in the near future.

MAY 23 1978

MEMORANDUM FOR: THE PRESIDENT
FROM: JAMES T. McINTYRE, Jr. Jim
SUBJECT: Department of Agriculture Appropriations for Personnel Compensation

The Agriculture Subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee has decided to include language in its FY 1979 appropriations bill which will seriously impede your ability to manage personnel levels at the Department of Agriculture.

Specifically, the bill to be reported by the Subcommittee would abandon the traditional mingling of "salaries and expenses" and would appropriate funds to be used solely for personnel compensation for each of eight of the largest USDA bureaus. This means that we will be required by law to choose between meeting the employment levels funded in the bill (substantially higher than current ceilings) or sending rescission requests to the Congress. Since few controversial requests to rescind funds are ever approved by the Congress, we will be forced to increase Federal employment. We would lose the flexibility we currently have to use funds intended for salaries for other program activities funded by the same appropriation.

Because the novel approach proposed by the Subcommittee would be legally enforceable and because it is likely to be proposed in other appropriations bills as well, I urge you to oppose it in the strongest possible terms--including a veto threat--in a personal meeting with Chairman Mahon of the full Committee and the relevant subcommittee chairmen.

As you requested, Frank, Stu and I will arrange such a meeting as soon as possible.
